- Williams had decided to take a year off from skating after his partnership with Lioudvinevitch ended in 2010. He had moved back home to Alberta when Orford contacted him for a tryout. When that was successful, he had to make a quick decision to move to Vancouver to skate with her. They medaled at their first JGP event, just four months later.
- When leaving Russian after 2012 Rostelecom Cup, Orford & Williams had to leave their skates at airport security. Their skates were mailed to them, but they did not arrive before the team had to leave for NHK Trophy a week later, so they competed in Japan wearing old skates. Williams's boots were held together with duct tape. They skated well and finished fourth.

TEAM NOTES:

- Virtue & Moir began skating together in October 1997, making them the longest-running competitive partnership in Canada.
- Virtue & Moir are the first Canadian ice dancers to win the Olympic title and the second to win the World title.
- They have national titles at every level except novice, and they one of two Canadian dance teams to have won national titles at four different levels.
- They hold Canadian records for total score in senior dance (both the CD+OD+FD and SD+FD formats) and junior dance (CD+OD+FD format).
- Virtue underwent surgery on her legs in fall 2008 and fall 2010. Both operations were done to relieve pressure caused by chronic exertional compartment syndrome. During the season after the second surgery, she changed her stroking pattern in order to prevent another relapse.
- Virtue is a student at the University of Windsor.
- Moir's family is heavily involved in skating. His older brothers, Charlie and Danny, both skated, as did his cousins. His aunt, Carol Moir, was his and Tessa's first dance coach.
- Virtue & Moir have their own reality show called "Tessa & Scott." It airs on the W Network this January.
- Though an official announcement has not been made, Virtue & Moir have hinted that this may be their final competitive season.

TEAM NOTES:

- Weaver & Poje began their partnership in July 2006.
- Weaver is from the U.S. and competed on the JGP circuit with Charles Clavey before moving to Canada to skate with Poje.
- Poje previously skated with Alice Graham and Alexandra Nino.
- Weaver & Poje won bronze medals at their first four major competitions together, including their first Canadian Championships.
- Weaver became a Canadian citizen in 2009.
- Weaver broke her ankle in December 2012, which forced the team to withdraw from the 2013 Canadian Championships. The injury was initially assumed to be season-ending, but Weaver's tenacity saw the team back on the ice in time to train for the 2013 World Championships, where they finished fifth with two inspired performances. In April 2013, Weaver underwent more surgery to have the hardware removed from her ankle.
